

An excellent novel, exotic intrigue and pure escapism.

Robin Jequier

★★★★★

An epic roller-coaster story with plenty of passion, loyalty and betrayal.

Patricia Fowler

★★★★★

A masterful piece of historic fiction - giving the reader an intimate sense of the horror, suffering and cruelty. Lust, romance, greed - it's all here

Andrew Satow

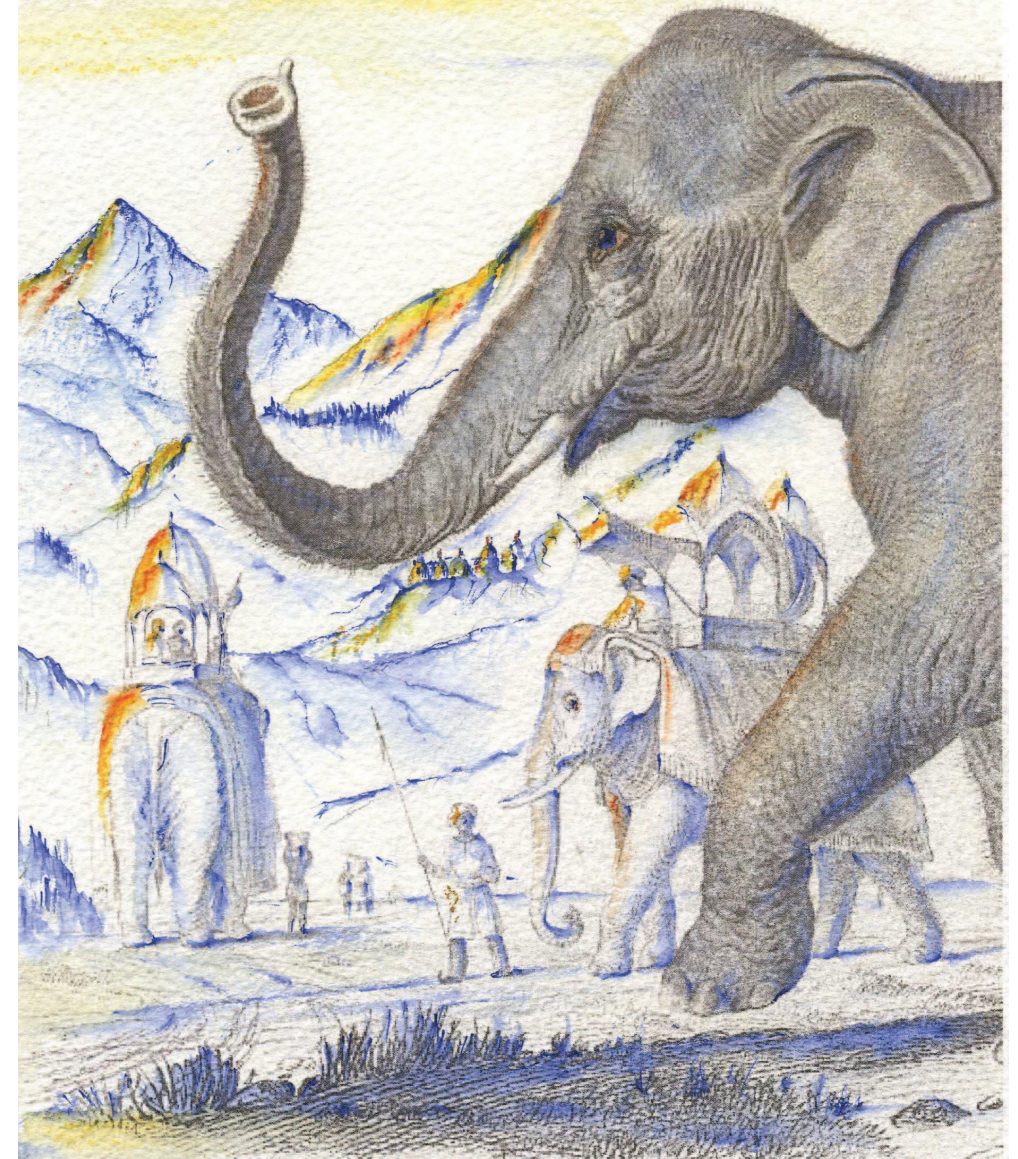

★★★★★

*A great romance which I could not put down.
Absolutely loved it.*

Clarissa Edwardsen

★★★★★

Beyond Kushnapur

by Peter and Mark Flawn-Thomas

Beyond Kushnapur

Against the turbulent backdrop of war torn Europe and India in the final days of the Raj, Adam Cullworthy, a British army officer, is introduced to the, romantic and often treacherous life of his school friend Rindi Debrahm.

The story, which spans 30 years from 1928 to 1959, opens at Kushnapur Palace in the foothills of the Himalayas. Home to Rindi's father the Maharajah of Kushnapur, it holds secrets of family conspiracy, religious conflict and a multi-layered web of intrigue surrounding a precious, bejewelled Indian sculpture.

Adam is drawn into this exotic and secretive world, but could never have imagined the role they had planned for him and the profound effect this would have on his life.

Available via www.amazon.co.uk

ISBN: 978-1-9161440-0-2

For further information please contact Brockwell Press

info@brockwellpress.com

020 7733 0088

www.beyondkushnapur.com

*Please join us
for the launch of*

Beyond Kushnapur

at

42 Berkeley Square

Mayfair

London

W1X 5DB

6.30pm, 3rd December 2019